Fire Chiefs and Council Talk Workload, Staffing, Funding

by Matthew Arbach

Soon-to-be-retired Prince George's County Fire Chief Benjamin Barksdale, along with members of his staff and leadership of the Greenbelt Volunteer Fire Department (GVFD), were present at a worksession of the Greenbelt City Council on August 26 to give an update on both departments. Also present were members of the Labor Day Festival Committee, who shared issues encountered in this year's effort.

Barksdale began the meeting by remarking that "it has been a pleasure to work in this unique community, adding that "it is a great place to live." Mayor Emmett Jordan praised him for an outstanding job and a distinguished career.

Barksdale will be succeeded by Chief Deputy Tiffany Green, who was also present. The first woman to lead the department, she will take charge on November 1. A Prince George's County native, Green began her career as a volunteer in 1999 and has risen through the ranks. Jordan extolled her, commenting how great it is to have an experienced person in this position.

Barksdale said that 60 firefighters have been added to an authorized career staff totaling 1,014. There are 45 county stations with round-the-clock career staffing and eight are staffed by volunteers. New stations are soon

by Ivan Torres

Greenbelt Police Department Honor Guard is poised to kick off the 2019 Labor Day Parade on Monday, September 2. Officially presenting the colors, they also lead the way for a colorful cast of characters from all facets of civic life: Grand Marshalls Lore Rosenthal and Michael Hartman, Master of Ceremonies Dave Zahren, the pipe and drum corps, marching bands, schools, sports teams, fire and police departments, youth clubs and more.

Cheerleaders, educators, cadets, drum lines and firefighters took over the streets of Greenbelt on Monday for the 65th annual Labor Day Parade. The Greenbelt Labor Day Festival was started in 1955 as a way of raising funds to build a Youth Center. It has been held every year since by the Greenbelt Labor Day Festival Committee.

With such a diverse lineup of participants, the parade had something every spectator could enjoy. A recurring theme of each year's parade is political activism. Even though only the Greenbelt City Council is up for election this fall, candidates for federal, state and county political offices marched chanting their campaign slogans, challenging Greenbelt citizens to be more politically active. Mothers from the local Boy Scout Council explained that their favorite part of the parade is how it caters to both the adults and children. The adults get to be politically involved in the community while the children indulge in carnival activities.

Among the organizations that turned out to march for a cause, the Greenbelt Sensational Inspirational Talented Youth (S.I.T.Y.) Stars jumped rope through the parade to stress the importance of children being active. Head Coach Kim Bradshaw stated, "Our mission is to build disciplined, team-oriented children that love being active."

Environmental, Peace Activists Are 2019 Outstanding Citizens

by Fatemeh Paryavi

The crowd cheered with affirmation as the Labor Day Festival began with the chair of the Outstanding Citizen Selection Committee, Robert Zugby, presenting the Greenbelt Outstanding Citizen award of 2019 to Lore Rosenthal and Michael Hartman.

Before calling Rosenthal and Hartman to the stage, Zugby encouraged the audience to nominate citizens for next year's Outstanding Citizen and fashioned a question and answer style pronouncement to show how and why the committee chose this year's winners.

"Has our Outstanding Citizen volunteered to assist nonprofit enterprises in serving the public?" posed Zugby.

"Has our Outstanding Citizen joined the fight against global warming by helping the community to move away from fossil fuels and toward sustainable energy sources like solar power?"

Greeting the crowds along the Labor Day parade route, the 2019 Outstanding Citizens Lore Rosenthal and Michael Hartman are roundly applauded for their many long-standing efforts to put the green in Greenbelt through their advocacy of sustainable living practices like zero waste, community composting and solar power.

Zugby concluded that the answer to all the questions he had posed was yes and that this year's Outstanding Citizen was "actually a team of two persons working together on all of these undertakings, thus proving, at last, that one can indeed equal two."

The team of two was thanked and encouraged by all the local politicians and city councilmembers for their hard work, initiatives and encouragement in pushing for a greener and zero-waste community.

"I've known Michael and Lore for quite some time, probably for 11 years, and they do incredible things," said Mayor Emmett Jordan after the speech. "They're a phenomenal couple."

The program was sponsored by Fieldstone Properties, owners of Franklin Park at Greenbelt Station, with resident Carolyn Davis present at the ceremony. The Greenbelt Federal Credit Union was represented by Joe Timer and the Greenbelt Rotary represented by Steve Kemp.

After Kemp, Davis and Timer presented the certificates to Rosenthal and Hartman, and in conclusion to the ceremony, Rosenthal thanked the audience and said that when she and Hartman had first moved to Greenbelt she "never would've imagined the number of things that you can get involved in here in Greenbelt."

"Really, anything's possible in this town. You dream it and it can happen," she said.

"We are very lucky to be a

A Movable Festival?

Thanks to the city and everyone who participates and coordinates our traditional Labor Day weekend festivities. I wonder what it could look like if other neighborhoods in Greenbelt were to host space for the Festival? Perhaps there is space over in Greenbelt West or Greenbelt East that could be a site for future festivals? Maybe each neighborhood could take turns hosting?

Post-festival Ear Woes

If your child has ear pain or strange sounds within the ears after listening to loud bands at the Labor Day Festival, that child should be seeing a (probably holistic) doctor right away.

A hearing test, say a week from now, may well turn out normal. But few know that the ensuing months will determine whether there will be any significant permanent hearing loss, as the body, depending upon how well it is treated, will either heal or not heal.

Researchers have found that magnesium is a critical nutrient for enabling the body to heal itself after an excessive sound exposure.

Sarah's Creek

I appreciate it that the News Review made room for a photo to accompany the article that you printed on page 6 this week about the unnamed stream in Greenbelt's North Woods. The photo shows children exploring this wild place in Greenbelt's woods. This article was written by the Forest Preserve Advisory Board. The board's mission is both to protect this forest's ecology and to encourage children and adults to explore the natural world. I hope that the photo you printed this week plants the seed in some readers' minds to visit the Forest Preserve.

I also want to commend the News Review's layout staff for going the extra mile to obtain a photo for this article even when they were tight against the deadline for this week's issue. Amanda Larsen attempted repeatedly to contact me yesterday morning and, not reaching me immediately, she went trekking into the Forest Preserve to find and photograph the unnamed stream. Eventually, she did reach me and under her encouragement I remembered that I had the winter ice-walking explorer-kid photo of the unnamed stream. My photo ended up being printed rather than hers.

The News Review does many things to provide our town with quality journalism, and I appreciate that the layout staff, not just the reporters and editorial staff, works hard to make a difference.

Maglev Runs On Helium

I saw Ruth Haynes' letter in the News Review and something surfaced from my subconscious where I put it sometime in May.

Do we know what the engineering studies cover?

Do they cover availability of helium? The superconductivity needed by maglev does not work without helium, according to a website specifically about maglev.

In May it was pointed out in the news, including a spot on WTOP, that helium is in short supply. The Texas reserve is being depleted. Helium is needed for NMR/MRI medical diagnostics and for rocket launches. That includes but is not limited to the space station, other SpaceX launches, Jeff Bezos' new rocket initiative, moon shots, Mars shots and the Space Force. Party City stores are closing because they can't get helium for balloons and still show a profit.

What happens if the reserve is too depleted for maglev to acquire helium by the time – now projected to be some time in 2030 if I remember correctly – the trains can run?

I have used the maglev and MDOT website to raise this issue to the authorities, but I think it's important for the general public to realize that Maryland could be left with a useless decaying hole

Where'd You Go, Bernadette

Based on the runaway bestseller, Where'd You Go, Bernadette is an inspiring comedy about Bernadette Fox (played by Academy Award winner Cate Blanchett). Former architect Bernadette seems to have it all – a beautiful home in Seattle, a successful and loving husband, and a brilliant teenage daughter who's about to attend boarding school. But her creative passions have languished after years of sacrificing herself for her family. When Bernadette suddenly disappears without a trace, her concerned family sets off on an exciting adventure to solve the mystery of where she might have gone.

Honeyland

Nestled in an isolated mountain region deep within the Balkans, Hatidze Muratova is the last in a long line of Macedonian wild beekeepers, eking out a living farming honey in small batches to be sold in the closest city – a mere four hours' walk away. Her peaceful existence is thrown into upheaval by the arrival of a poor itinerant family who develop an interest selling their own honey, but by cutting corners. The ensuing conflict exposes the fundamental tension between nature and humanity, harmony and discord, exploitation and sustainability. A Sundance Award-winning documentary.

CITY ELECTION INFORMATION
ANY REGISTERED GREENBELT VOTER
MAY CHOOSE TO VOTE ABSENTEE

NO MORE EXCUSES!

This is the fourth municipal election in which any qualified voter of the City of Greenbelt may choose to vote by absentee ballot in municipal elections. There is no longer any need to present an excuse for why you wish to be absent from your polling place on Election Day.

The purpose of the change is to give an additional option to voters and make it easier to vote in City elections. If you prefer to come to your polling place on Election Day, meet up with your neighbors, talk with the candidates, and use a voting machine, you may still do so, just as before. But if you prefer to vote early, or if you like the idea of voting by mail or using a paper ballot instead of a voting machine, you now have more choices. Just be sure to vote. No more excuses!

First, request a ballot in one of two ways. Each individual requesting a ballot must submit a separate, signed application form or letter.

- Fill out an application form that you may 1) pick up in the City Clerk’s office, 2) request from the City Clerk by phone at 301-474-8000 or by e-mail at banderson@greenbeltmd.gov, or 3) print from the City’s Web site at <http://www.greenbeltmd.gov>; or
- Write a letter of application to the City Clerk, 25 Crescent Road, including your full name, domicile address in Greenbelt, signature, and telephone number.

Military service members, their families, and other U.S. citizens abroad who are covered under the Uniformed and Overseas Citizens Absentee Voting Act may also use the Federal Post Card Application (<http://www.fvap.gov>) to request an absentee ballot for City election.

Applications to receive absentee ballots will be received from Wednesday, October 16, until noon on Monday, November 4, 2019. The completed ballot must be received by the City Clerk no later than 6 p.m. the day of the regular election, November 5, 2019. No absentee ballots will be distributed prior to October 16.

Return your executed absentee ballot by 1) sending it through the U.S. mail in time to arrive by November 4, 2) hand-delivering it to the City Clerk’s office, or 3) placing it in the locked drop-box at the east door of the Municipal Building at 25 Crescent Road. Questions? Call the City Clerk at 301-474-8000, or send email to banderson@greenbeltmd.gov.

GAC’s Musical, The Wild Party, Hits the Right Notes

by Sandy Rodgers

The Wild Party is a tour de force performance of acting, singing, dancing and orchestral music, that brings the decadent 1920s to life with exuberance, pathos and heart. A steamy prohibition tale, based on Joseph Moncure March’s 1928 narrative poem of the same name, the musical debuted off-Broadway in 2000. The Greenbelt Arts Center (GAC) production is presented through a special arrangement with Music Theatre International.

As the story begins, bored lovers Queenie and Burrs decide to throw a blowout party in their Manhattan apartment, with anticipated bathtub gin, drugs and sex. The apartment fills with their colorful friends, a coterie of eccentrics living life on the edge, and multiple song and dance numbers advance the various subplots of the main storyline. As the evening progresses Queenie’s wandering eye falls on Black, a striking new guy who’s also attracted to her. It’s obvious that trouble is coming. Drunkenness and debauchery reach their apex when Burrs turns on Queenie and her new paramour with jealousy and violence.

The actors playing the major characters get the most musical numbers, which highlight the wonderful voices and dancing abilities of Lindsey Litka (Queenie), Luis “Matty” Montes (Burrs), Brian Daughlax (Black) and Melanie Kurstin (Kate). There are standout performances by them and the rest of the cast, including Judah Canizares, Matthew Cibak, Daniel Dausman, Jessie Duggan, Kit Flaherty, Lauren-Nicole Gabel, Becca Glatt, Katrina Jackson, Dash Samari and David Yarmchuk.

Director Jeffery Lesniak, music director Elizabeth Alford and choreographer Rikki Lacewell have inspired terrific performances from the cast members, whose chemistry is obvious on stage, and from the musicians. This engaging production leaves the audience laughing, tapping their feet and listening in appreciation to soaring voices (solo and in harmony) backed by the fantastic orchestra. The musicians are David Booth, Phil Cannon and Stan Potter on reeds, Earl Smith on trumpet, Tyler Golsen on guitar, Chip Racster on bass and Larissa Hannon on drums. The score was especially powerful when the music veered into jazz, vaudeville and gospel melodies. Also notable is the costume design by Rikki Lacewell and Shemika Berry. From the vintage underwear in the burlesque-like scenes to the outfits worn by the flappers and their beaus in other scenes, the attention to detail helps create an authentic 1920s atmosphere.

For a thoroughly enjoyable two hours of music, drama and mayhem, don’t miss this production, which will be performed at the GAC Friday and Saturday evenings at 8 p.m. on September 6, 7, 13 and 14 and matinees at 2 p.m. on Sundays, September 8 and 15. Note that The Wild Party contains adult situations and language, and is inappropriate for children. For tickets and to find out about other productions coming soon, visit greenbeltartscenter.org.

Democratic Club Hosts Hoyer At its September 20 Meeting

by Konrad Herling

Congressman Steny Hoyer will speak at the next meeting of the Eleanor and Franklin Roosevelt Democratic Club on Friday, September 20, 7:30 p.m. at the Greenbriar Community Building.

Hoyer, who has represented the Fifth Congressional District since 1981, is, again, House Majority Leader. Recently he has shepherded legislation on gun control, prescription drug prices and preexisting medical conditions, and he is uniquely qualified to explain the progress (or lack thereof) of these and other legislative priorities such as health care, infrastructure and education. After his talk, Hoyer will answer questions. Since a large audience is expected, questions will be limited to one per person.

The Greenbriar Community Building is located at 7600 Hanover Parkway. Admission is free, though all are encouraged to bring a snack or a dessert to share. For more information, contact Roosevelt Club President Nicole Williams at 202-321-4207 or visit rooseveltclub.com.

Table Tennis Tournament Crowns 2019 Champion

by Kayla Kozak

John Anderson, participates in the annual Labor Day Table Tennis Tournament on Friday, August 30.

For the 37th year in a row, local ping pong hopefuls met in the Youth Center’s Multipurpose Room from 5 to 7 p.m. on August 30 to compete for the coveted title of table tennis champion. The annual Table Tennis Tournament, a Labor Day weekend staple since 1982, consisted of 19 competitors of various ages and levels of experience, including a small doubles bracket.

For some, the tournament was a unique way to spend a Friday night. “I’m just here for fun,” said Asa Dawson, 18. This year marked Dawson’s first time competing in the adult bracket, but other participants are far from new to the game of ping pong.

“I started (playing) when I was about 12. It’s a lifetime game and sport,” said Frank White, 64. White helps to organize the Greenbelt Table Tennis Club, a community of players that meets every Thursday in the Youth Center from 7 to 9:45 p.m. Like the tournament, the club is open to anyone, and boasts both new and long-time participants. One such player is John Anderson, who has had his fair share of tournament victories. “Been playing here 15 years. Every year,” said Anderson, 61.

Competitor Roger Foltz ultimately came out on top, earning both the title and a trophy for his table tennis talents. Despite losing, routine participants like Anderson have a non-competitive reason to return next Labor Day. “(Because of) these guys here,” Anderson said as he gestured to the room full of players. “They’re all my friends.”

School Parent Teacher Association sought to inspire the community with signs saying Read More Books and Build Schools Not Walls.

Greenbelt animal shelter volunteers walked with dogs that are up for adoption and Greenbelt citizens emphasized environmental conservation with a line of electric cars.

From circus jugglers to dog trainers, the Labor Day Parade is a place where residents can promote their organizations while celebrating the Greenbelt community. “This parade has been a staple of Greenbelt and its surrounding areas for as long as I have been in politics,” said Maryland District 22 Senator Paul Pinsky. “It’s an amazing tradition.”

part of this community,” said Hartman after the program, “and the diversity in the community is very special to us.”

“When you live in Greenbelt, if you have an idea you can make it happen,” added Rosenthal, “if it’s not there already you just make it happen.”

Vehicle Crime

A 31-year-old nonresident was arrested and charged with motor vehicle theft, unauthorized use, rogue and vagabond, and theft after officers responded to a report that a man occupying a vehicle in the 7900 block Vanity Fair Drive was acting suspiciously. He left when the officers arrived. The vehicle, a Land Rover, was found to have been reported stolen to Bladensburg police. The man returned, was positively identified, arrested and transported to the Department of Corrections for a hearing before a district court commissioner.

A gray 4-door 2018 Nissan Altima with Maryland tags 7DB199 was taken from the 6100 block Breezewood Court on August 26. A black 2008 Honda CBR 600 RR motorcycle with Maryland tag 68521Y was taken on August 25 in the 400 block Ridge Road.

Thefts from vehicles include four tires and rims removed from each of two vehicles, one in the 7700 block Hanover Parkway and the other in the 6900 block Hanover Parkway. A trailer hitch was taken in the 5700 block Greenbelt Metro Drive.

to be built in Shady Glen, Oxon Hill and Beechtree.

The physical and mental wellness of fire fighters was a major topic discussed, as rates of suicide have surpassed rates of death in the line of duty in recent years. Barksdale outlined a robust program to address suicide, including employee assistance, chaplaincy and peer support.

Barksdale responded to questions from council concerning the allocation of GVFD staff and equipment to neighboring areas, stating the shared utility of all county stations. Response is primarily dictated by need, through the use of a satellite system that selects the closest station or apparatus for any particular emergency. Regarding GVFD, only 35 percent of all calls pertain solely to Greenbelt, with the majority responding to outside communities.

County Deputy Fire Chief Brian Frankel spoke on the issue of declining revenues from Emergency Medical Service (EMS) billing, a trend that is nationwide. In the case of Greenbelt, in Fiscal Year 2018, revenues were $42,000, whereas in FY 2019, they had dropped to $30,000. The county has commissioned their billing vendor to make a study of this situation. EMS calls account for 80 percent of all calls per year.

Prince George’s County adheres to a statute that does not allow aggressive billing of individuals. The county’s mission is to always provide service regardless of an individual’s ability to reimburse. The current collection rate has fallen to 43 percent, down from 46 percent two years ago. The county is responsible for money not collected.

A recent program called Mobile Integrated Health Plan has helped address this issue by providing home care to individuals who have made use of EMS five or six times during a year. In 2018, the program reduced calls by 48 percent among people enrolled in the program.

Barksdale said that the county is the 16th busiest department in the country, with some units fielding 4,000 calls a year.

Greenbelt Chief Thomas Ray and Assistant Chief Greg Gigliotti emphasized the struggle of finding volunteers who have the time to devote to this work. They reiterated Greenbelt’s role in supplying staff and equipment to neighboring stations, such as College Park, Berwyn Heights, Branchville and Laurel.

The meeting concluded with a report from Labor Day Festival organizers Linda Ivy and Davina Johnson. They related their recurring struggle in fulfilling fire and safety codes, particularly in the case of food vendors underneath tents, and wooden benches – a situation that seems to change every year and with every inspector. The county promised to assist them by providing materials information, such as the proper fire retardant tent, as well as being present on the August 30 inspection. In all its 65 years, the Festival has never experienced a fire.

They also spoke of the challenge of getting the needed permits. In earlier years this had been an easy procedure.

Incoming County Chief Green closed the meeting by stating that she was “looking forward to working” with the city council.
